

ESTATE PLANNING WORKSHEET

INSTRUCTIONS FOR COMPLETION

Thank you for contacting our firm about your estate planning. This worksheet can be helpful for organizing your thoughts about estate planning and for providing information to us about your family and estate. If you choose to complete it, fill it out as well as you can, either skipping or placing question marks on those items that seem inapplicable or about which you have questions or simply don't know the answer. Because your estate planning wishes may vary from question to question, each of you should complete a worksheet.

NOTICE TO COUPLES AND MARRIED CLIENTS

Something all couples must understand is that any time an attorney undertakes to advise both partners in the estate planning process, an inherent conflict exists. An attorney is required to be impartial, loyal and free to exercise independent judgment with regard to his client's needs. The attorney cannot promote the interest of one spouse/client to the disadvantage of the other, nor keep secrets told by one from the other. The attorney may act as the common representative for the couple only if they are fully advised of the conflict and consent to the joint representation. In short, each of you has your own interests to consider in this planning process. Although they may not be adverse at this point, there is always the potential that differences may develop. In marital situations, you may disagree over whether certain property is separate or community. You may have desires concerning disposition of your property that may differ from your partner's desires. You may have concerns about providing for children of a previous marriage that are not shared by your partner.

If either of you should ever be concerned about any disagreements that may arise during this process, I must urge you to seek the independent advice of separate counsel. As we work together, I will be wary of any conflict that may arise and, under certain circumstances, may be compelled to withdraw from representation and advise each of you to seek independent counsel.

By completing this worksheet and undertaking the estate planning process with Drew & McCallum, you acknowledge and understand that the potential for conflict exists and you agree and consent to this firm's joint representation of you and your spouse/partner.
